H1 Learning Piano for Kids: Advantages and Tips of Piano Learning Explained

Why is learning piano so important for kids?

#. Piano lessons for kids make for a great after-school extracurricular activity. Playing the piano is not only a treat to the ears but also enjoyable to play. This can help reduce stress as it is a great way for people to express their emotions and themselves. Learning piano also teaches discipline since it requires consistent and focused practice.

#. Learning how to practice properly is the key element to learning the piano, or any other instrument or even a skill. Learning piano is also a skill that helps increase confidence in kids since, after a certain time, children become ready for stage performances where they get to perform in front of a crowd.

#. One of the greatest advantages is that it highly advances the reasoning skill of children which ultimately develops their IQ. It also helps in memory development, which is necessary for a good academic performance, since kids have to spend a long time memorizing notes and songs.

All of these aspects contribute to the development of learning skills, discipline and a sense of responsibility.

H3 Learn Piano Online

Learning the piano is a skill that takes hard work, patience and time. Therefore, in order to master the piano, proper piano lessons for kids are a must. You can opt for physical lessons with an individual teacher or even completely learn online. It can be as per what suits your child better.

Moreover, learning piano online is one of the best ways to properly teach your kid how to play the piano at any level, be it a complete beginner, intermediate or even advanced.

H3 Advantages of Learning Piano Online

Online piano classes through resources like Real School have a fair share of advantages such as -

#1. Online piano lessons are more cost-effective and cheaper than physical lessons. Personalised lessons are available online at a fraction of the cost of offline lessons.

#2. They are much more convenient since kids can learn from the comfort of their homes with printable notes and materials, and exciting online resources or videos which are easily available.

#3. Online lessons are much more interesting and exciting for children. They are innovatively designed especially to hold kids attention and inculcate a deep interest in learning piano.

#4. Learning online can save up on your travelling expenses. Plus, kids can refer to the video lessons at any time of the day so there are no time restrictions.

H2 How to Learn Piano?

Other than finding a great teacher or proper online lesson, there are many things one must keep in mind before starting piano lessons for their child. These include:

H4 Step 1- Making Sure that Learning Piano is Right for Your Child

The child's hand size is an important determining factor. You must ensure that your child can span their hand across five white notes, as well as properly move individual fingers. If your child is not able to do so then they are not quite ready to learn the piano.

To learn any instrument, your child needs to have a keen interest in music, otherwise, it would be a waste of time and effort. If your child is not interested but you force them to play, they will play for some time but it ultimately will not be helpful and your child will stop playing.

To conclude, learning the piano properly is like running a marathon which requires both enthusiasm and commitment to succeed.

H4 Step 2- Finding the Right Piano

There are three basic types of piano available but acoustic pianos are the largest and most expensive.

Many people say that one should start to play and learn acoustic pianos due to their superior size and sound quality. Digital pianos are smaller, less expensive, and are mostly able to properly imitate the sound and feel of the acoustic piano, and sometimes with such perfection that the difference between acoustic and high-quality digital pianos is hardly evident. On the other hand, electronic ones are also good, to begin with, but are usually not as promising.

To summarise, acoustic pianos provide the best learning experience but one can also start with smaller and less expensive digital pianos.

H4 Step 3- Ensure Complete Comfort

To start, you must have a comfortable stool to sit on for a long period. After that, you can sit with your child and play around on the piano together, listen to the music and sing along. This will motivate your child to learn better and practice more. You can also show your child tutorials or live piano performances or covers on YouTube.

H3 How to Make Sure that Your Child Keeps Practising Piano Lessons?

H4 Include Practising Time into the Daily Regimen

Ensure that your toddler regards practise time as a regular and ritualistic part of his or her day, such as eating breakfast. Including practice regularly will create a beneficial habit.

H4 Allow Your Youngster to “Play” instead of Practising

It's crucial to teach your children to love the music they're studying, therefore allow them to be creative while learning.

H4 Don't be Scared to Get Inventive

Make practice time more engaging by incorporating "games." When you do not fear experimentations is when new innovations come into play. Trial and error is part of learning.

H4 Make an Effort

At least once a week, sit with your child in their piano practice session. This is a way of appreciating their art.

H4 Set Good Examples

Practice piano with your child if you play the instrument you're encouraging them to learn. Demonstrate that you must practise even if you "know" what you're doing. Yelling might seem like the most effective technique to get a youngster to start practising. But it only works once or twice and leads to a lack of interest. Encourage them into loving what they do by showing them the work of influencers who are in the same field.

H5 Conclusion

Playing the piano is a skill that can help your child in more ways than one. Proper piano lessons are a must since learning piano for kids is not an easy feat and requires guidance, time, hard work and practice. This is where The Real School comes in.
